This is probably a case of "everything you ever wanted to know about the HIC and much more," but I think it will be useful to you in preparation for any upcoming discussions on the matter. I believe that the so-called Agency "cultural" activities with the exception of the Academic Associates Program could and should be made a part of the Center for the Study of Intelligence. Having said that, I am well aware of the political considerations involved and do not really anticipate that such an amalgamation will be possible. It does remain a worthwhile goal, however.

On the question of a possible replacement for [] as Curator of the HIC, I would like [] to be given serious consideration. I believe that given his intellect and interests, he could do a first-class job in that role.
